ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I am indebted to Drs. Nelson Lumbantoruan, Medan, for his assistance in the arduous work of typing all 11,120 entries of Van der Tuuk's dictionary.

UCAPAN TERIMA KASIH

Kami mengucapkan terima kasih tak terhingga kepada Drs. Nelson Lumbantoruan, Medan, yang membantu mengetik ke-11.120 lema yang terdapat dalam kamus Van der Tuuk.

PREFACE

When J. Warneck published his Toba Batak - German dictionary in 1906, he wrote: "This dictionary has been designed for practical purposes. It shall not compete with Van der Tuuk's excellent Batak - Dutch dictionary, but it is intended to present the vocabulary of the Toba dialect to which it is limited in a more convenient and comprehensive way, as it was achieved by aforementioned scholar"¹ (Warneck 1906). Reading between the lines, we can conclude that Warneck regarded Van der Tuuk's dictionary (1861) as neither practical, nor convenient. Van der Tuuk did indeed do his very best to prevent his dictionary from becoming a convenient source of reference. This lack of practicality is best explained using an example. Under the entry ᷑ᷓᷕᷓᷔᷓᷓᷔ sarimbar on page 150, the reader finds as the only reference "(vgl. ᷑ᷓᷔᷓᷕᷓᷔ) = ᷑ᷓᷕᷓᷔ I."² Looking up the entry ᷑ᷓᷕᷓᷔ aut on page 1, the reader does not become much wiser since he is further referred to "᷑ᷓᷕᷓᷔ (M.)"³. Looking up the entry gulang on page 129 the reader does not find any reference that the word is Mandailing Batak. Nevertheless, the reader must assume that sarimbar and aut are very likely synonym with gulang-gulang. To even further complicate the matter, Van der Tuuk does not provide a straight translation of gulang-gulang, but gives the following definition: “de dwarsliggende planken die op de sumban rusten en de zolder uitmaken van een sopo”!⁴ The user of Van der Tuuk’s dictionary (provided that he has not given up already) now has no other choice but to look up the words sumban and sopo in order to get a clue of what gulang-gulang means precisely. Sopo, on page 166, is clearly defined as an open dwelling, and under the entry sumban on page 188, the reader gets a clearer picture of a gulang-gulang, i.e.: “de breede planken, die op de lambe-lambe rustende een sopo in de lengte doorlopen; de tusschenruimte tusschen hen en de gulanggulang is de plats waar de aankomende zijn wapen op nederlegt.”⁵

But can the reader be sure that sarimbar is a synonym with aut and gulang-gulang? Just to be on the safe side, it is probably a good idea to look up serrimar (𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭) on page 164 where, of course, the reader is further referred to pantar (D[airi]). Having found 𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭 on page 328 the reader is further confused with three different meanings of pantar, although by this stage he can safely (?) conclude that it must be “𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭 I. vloer van naast elkander liggende latten (van 𐀓𐀛𐀧𐀭𐀓, of boombast)”.⁶

Van der Tuuk’s dictionary is also rather difficult to use since all entries are in the long obsolete Batak script. The letters of the Batak alphabet are, moreover, listed according to the Indian, and not the Batak, alphabetic order, making it extraordinarily difficult to use even for those who have mastered the Batak script.⁷

As if this is not already complicated enough, the user always

⁴ The cross-planks that rest on the sumban and form the loft of a sopo.

⁶ Floor of closely laid planks made of pangko (the wood of the sugar palm) or bast.

has to consult the Bijvoegsel and the Verbeteringen (addenda et corrigenda) on pp. 497-550, thus making it one of the most inconvenient dictionaries imaginable.

Warneck also states that it is not the intention of his dictionary to compete with van der Tuuk's dictionary. Indeed, both dictionaries are very different, and Warneck's dictionary complements Van der Tuuk's rather than replacing it as R. Roolvink aptly states in the preface to the revised edition of Warneck's dictionary (Warneck 1977:vi): "Everyone who is interested in the Toba language will have to use the Batak – Dutch dictionary by H.N. van der Tuuk in addition to this revised edition of Warneck's dictionary."⁸ Van der Tuuk's dictionary gives a comprehensive account of the many ideolects of the Batak people including the language of laments (hata andung) or the language of the ancestor spirits (hata ni begu siar). It is also full of ethnographic details and etymological notes, and as inconvenient as it is, will remain an indispensable source, not only for those who want to study the Toba Batak language, but also for those with an interest in Dairi, Angkola, and Mandailing Batak.

The revised edition of Warneck's dictionary that was published in the late 70s was followed by a number of Batak – Indonesian dictionaries (Manik 1977; Sarumpaet 1994; Sinaga & Napitupulu 1994; Siregar 1977; Tambunan 1977). All these certainly do have their merits but, again, they can only complement, but not replace either Warneck's or Van der Tuuk's dictionary.

This word list is intended to facilitate the use of Van der Tuuk's dictionary. It must be acknowledged that by compiling the dictionary in the Batak script, the author avoided a number of difficulties associated with the different phonetic systems of the three Batak dialects – Angkola-Mandailing, Toba, and Dairi – covered in this dictionary. The use of the now obsolete Batak script, however, has made the dictionary obsolete too. Although this reference list uses Romanized script for all of the entries of the dictionary, some knowledge of the Batak script is still required to find the entry on the respective page. This is now very easy since all entries in the reference list do not only give the page where the entry is located, but also the column: “siyar 178a” for instance indicates that the entry ᯊᯚᯗᯚ can be found in the left (a) column of page 178. The need to always cross-check with the Bijvoegsel (addenda) is also no longer required since the reference list indicates if the entry in question is also listed in the Bijvoegsel.

The reader does, of course, still require some knowledge of the Batak script to locate the entry in the specified column, and to be able to read the examples given. This reference list is thus of limited help, but it does considerably speed up the process of looking up a particular entry. An additional benefit is that all the entries are available on-line as a downloadable data file <www.bahasa.net/tuuk.html>. This is particularly helpful for philologists who will find the search options a useful tool, especially if used in combination with wildcards.

The entries in this word list are all transliterated exactly the way they appear in the original dictionary. In looking up a word such as siar or tuan one needs to be aware that in the Batak script these words are always written ᯊᯚᯗᯚ (siyar) and ᯊᯚᯚᯚ (tuwan) and are thus listed accordingly. More complicated is Van der Tuuk’s spelling of Dairi words since he consistently doubles glide consonants as in geluh, meseng, and dedoh which he renders as ᯊᯚᯚᯚ gëlluh, ᯊᯚᯚᯚ mëssëng, and ᯊᯚᯚᯚ dëtdoh.

Despite these apparent shortcomings I do believe that this word list will become a useful tool, making Van der Tuuk’s excellent Batak dictionary accessible to a wider public.

PENDAHULUAN

Ketika J. Warneck menerbitkan kamus bahasa Toba - Jerman pada tahun 1906, beliau menulis: “Kamus ini disusun guna memenuhi tujuan praktis. Kamus ini tidak dimaksud untuk menyaingi kamus Batak - Belanda yang disusun oleh Van der Tuuk melainkan untuk membentangkan kosa kata hanya dari satu dialek saja, yaitu bahasa Batak Toba, secara lebih praktis dan lebih lengkap.”⁹ (Warneck 1906). Secara tersirat dan sangat halus Warneck mengungkapkan bahwa menurutnya kamus Van der Tuuk tidak dapat dikatakan praktis. Dalam hal ini kami sepenuhnya setuju dengan Warneck. Pengguna kamus Van der Tuuk acap kali mendapat kesan seolah-olah Van der Tuuk dengan sengaja mempersulit penggunaannya.

Di bawah lema ᯪᯫᯰ᯳ᯪᯰ᯳ᯪ sarimbar di halaman 150 misalnya, tercantum rujukan“(vgl. ᯪᯫᯰ᯳ᯪᯰ᯳ᯪ) = ᯪᯫᯰ᯳ᯪᯰ᯳ᯪ I.”¹⁰ Menengok lema ᯪᯫᯰ᯳ᯪᯰ᯳ᯪ aut di halaman 1, kita masih belum juga diberitahu arti kata yang dicari dan malahan dirujuk lagi ke “= ᯪᯫᯰ᯳ᯪᯰ᯳ᯪ (M.)” yang berarti “searti dengan gulang-gulang dalam bahasa Mandailing”. Mencari lema gulang di halaman 129 ternyata tidak ada rujukan pada bahasa Mandailing sehingga si pengguna kamus Van der Tuuk, kalau belum putus asa, mesti menyimpulkan bahwa kata sarimbar dan aut sepadan dengan kata gulang-gulang. Tetapi apakah gerangan arti sarimbar alias aut alias gulang-gulang? Van der Tuuk belum siap menguji kesabaran kita, dan tidak menerjemahkan kata tersebut secara langsung, melainkan dengan memberi definisi gulang-gulang yang bunyinya: “Papan melintang yang disokong oleh sumban yang menjadi lantai loteng sebuah sopo”!¹¹

Mau tidak mau pengguna kamus – kalau belum juga kapok – harus mencari lagi kata sumban dan sopo supaya dapat mengetahui dengan lebih sempurna apa yang persisnya dimaksud dengan gulang-gulang. Sopo, di halaman 166, berarti lumbung padi, dan baru setelah membaca lema sumban di halaman 188 maka si pengguna dapat gambaran yang lebih jelas apa yang dimaksud dengan gulang-gulang, yaitu: “Papan lebar yang disokong oleh lambelambe di tengah-tengah sopo. Sela yang terdapat di antara papan dan gulanggulang tersebut ialah tempatnya seorang tamu meletakkan senjatanya.”¹²

Sekarang kita sudah tahu akan arti gulang-gulang, namun kata yang kita cari semula bukan gulang-gulang melainkan sarimbar. Apakah kita bisa yakin bahwa sarimbar memang sepadan dengan gulang-gulang? Untuk mendapat kepastian lebih baik jika kita mencari serrimar (ᯀᯂᯃᯪᯫᯰᯃᯪᯫ) di halaman 164. Bukan namanya Van der Tuuk kalau langsung diterjemahkan, dan sekali lagi kita disuruh main kucing-kucingan: “(vgl. ᯀᯂᯃᯪᯫᯰᯃᯪᯫ) = —ᯀᯂᯃᯪᯫᯰᯃᯪᯫ (D[airi].)” Setelah mencari —ᯀᯂᯃᯪᯫᯰᯃᯪᯫ (pantar) di halaman 328 pengguna dibingungkan lagi karena terdapat tiga makna yang berbeda, namun pada tahap pencarian ini kita boleh tiba pada kesimpulan bahwa yang dimaksud adalah makna yang

pertama: “—ᐆ、ᐆᐆ、 I. vloer van naast elkander liggende latten (van —ᐆᐆ, of boombast).”¹³

Kamus Van der Tuuk (Tuuk 1861) juga sulit untuk digunakan karena ditulis dengan menggunakan aksara Batak yang sudah lama tidak dipakai lagi. Seluruh lema dalam kamus tersebut disusun menurut urutan abjad India dan bukan menurut urutan abjad aksara Batak sehingga sulit untuk digunakan bahkan bagi mereka yang sudah menguasai aksara Batak.¹⁴

Satu lagi kendala yang mempersulit penggunaan kamus Van der Tuuk berkaitan dengan Bijvoegsel (hal. 497-549) dan Verbeteringen (hal. 550) yang mengandung lema tambahan, dan ralat. Lema tambahan bukan saja mengandung lema baru yang belum terdapat di bagian utama, tetapi juga sublema sehingga pembaca dianjurkan untuk sering melihat di bagian Bijvoegsel. Tentu saja hal ini membuat penggunaan kamus Van der Tuuk menjadi tambah rumit lagi.

Dalam kutipan Warneck di atas juga dikatakan bahwa kamus Warneck tidak dimaksud untuk menyaingi kamus Van der Tuuk. Dan memang kedua kamus sangat berbeda sehingga dengan adanya kamus Warneck bukan berarti kamus Van der Tuuk menjadi mubazir melainkan kedua kamus saling melengkapi. Pada edisi tahun 1977 Roolvink menulis dalam prakata: “Setiap orang yang meneliti bahasa Toba masih tetap perlu menggunakan kamus Batak – Belanda oleh Van der Tuuk di samping kamus Warneck edisi baru ini.” (Warneck 1977:vi).¹⁵ Kamus Van der Tuuk’s masih tetap merupakan sumber terlengkap yang mencantumkan ragam bahasa seperti bahasa ratapan (hata andung) atau ragam bahasa yang digunakan oleh roh nenek moyang (hata ni begu siar). Selain itu kamus Van der Tuuk sarat dengan keterangan yang menarik dari segi antropologi, penjelasan etimologi kata, dsb. Kesimpulannya, biarpun pemakaiannya rumit kamus Van der Tuuk masih tetap merupakan sumber bahasa Batak yang tak dapat diabaikan, baik bagi mereka yang menaruh minat terhadap bahasa Angkola-Mandailing, Pakpak-Dairi maupun bahasa Toba.

¹⁴ Dapat diduga bahwa Van der Tuuk menggunakan urutan adjad India karena tidak ada keragaman dalam urutan abjad Batak. Abjad Toba saja mengenal minimal dua urutan yang berbeda satu dengan lain (Kozok 1999:87).

Selain kedua kamus yang sudah disebut di atas masih ada sejumlah kamus bahasa Batak – Indonesia yang diterbitkan di Indonesia (Manik 1977; Sarumpaet 1994; Sinaga and Napitupulu 1994; Siregar 1977; Tambunan 1977). Masing-masing kamus tersebut memiliki segi positifnya namun tidak ada di antaranya yang cukup lengkap sehingga dapat menjadi pengganti kamus Warneck dan Van der Tuuk. Peneliti bahasa, sastra dan budaya Batak belum bisa mengandalkan terbitan baru ini dan masih tetap perlu membuka kamus Warneck dan Van der Tuuk sebagai bahan rujukan yang belum dapat ditandingi.

Daftar rujukan ini dimaksud untuk mempermudah penggunaan kamus Van der Tuuk. Walaupun daftar rujukan ini disusun dengan menggunakan huruf Latin para pengguna kamus Van der Tuuk masih tetap harus memiliki pengetahuan aksara Batak secara dasar untuk menemukan kata tersebut pada halaman rujukan. Hal ini sekarang menjadi sangat mudah karena daftar rujukan ini tidak hanya menyebut nomor halaman tetapi juga di kolom mana kata yang dicari berada: “siyar 178a” misalnya berarti bahwa lema  dapat ditemukan di kolom kiri (a) halaman 178. Tentu saja para pengguna daftar rujukan ini masih tetap harus mencari  di antara sekian lema yang berada di halaman tersebut, dan masih tetap juga harus bisa membaca contoh yang diberikan Van der Tuuk yang umumnya menggunakan aksara Batak. Namun demikian, dengan adanya daftar rujukan ini penggunaan kamus Van der Tuuk menjadi jauh lebih mudah, apalagi karena juga disebut apabila suatu lema juga berada di Bijvoegsel (daftar kosa kata tambahan).

Seluruh daftar rujukan ini terdapat juga dalam bentuk file data base di <http://www.bahasa.net/tuuk.html>. Hal ini khususnya berguna karena memungkinkan untuk mencari sebuah kata dengan menggunakan wildcarding.

Seluruh kata dalam daftar rujukan ini ditransliterasi sesuai dengan aslinya. Kalau mencari kata seperti siar atau tuan perlu disadari bahwa dalam aksara Batak kata-kata ini biasanya ditulis ꨀꨆꨑꨐ (siyar) dan ꨀꨆꨑꨐ (tuwan). Lebih rumit adalah ejaan bahasa Dairi yang digunakan Van der Tuuk karena kata seperti geluh, meseng, dan dedoh selalu ditulis ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ gëlluh, ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ mëssëng, dan ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ ꨀꨆꨑꨐ dëtdoh.

Di samping kekurangan yang disebut di atas yang belum sepenuhnya dapat diatasi kami percaya bahwa daftar rujukan ini merupakan alat yang sangat bermanfaat bagi setiap orang yang menaruh minat terhadap bahasa-bahasa Batak
